

workshop home learning

National Teaching School designated by

National College for Teaching & Leadership

A practical session for parents and practitioners to think, create and produce a home learning activity to use with their children at home or school. Parents are the child's first educators and it is important to spend quality time every day with them. Home learning packs are a great resource to aid in this and are easily created from simple packaging and items that are available in the home.

Objectives

- To be able to design a suitable home learning activity
- To create resources to take away and use with their child at home/school.

Delivered by

Audrey Murch is a SEN Outreach practitioner, working with children in their home, pre-school or school settings. She is also a Thomas Outreach Programme (TOP) worker and has a wealth of knowledge and experience of working with children with social communication or autistic spectrum difficulties.

Other information

Glue, laminates and card will be available to use during the workshop, but please bring along suitable packaging from Christmas presents to enhance your activities. Tea and coffee will be provided.
